

4-H Welcomes Youth

Through 4-H, youth learn to set goals, organize their time, complete projects, evaluate what they've done and keep records. Learning life skills is easy when youth are having fun!

4-H Welcomes Families

When youth are active in 4-H, the whole family spends quality time together. Parents play a big part in helping children have successful 4-H experience.

4-H Welcomes Adults

In Sawyer County over 100 adults volunteer their time and efforts for 4-H. Some are organizational leaders, others may help by leading a project or activity.

4-H Partners

Educational programs, support, and coordination for 4-H is provided by the University of Wisconsin- Extension and the Sawyer County 4-H Youth Development Educator, a university faculty member. Federal, state and local government fund 4-H youth education through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the University of Wisconsin, and Sawyer County.
